

Southern Ontario Graduate Security Network

Department of Political Science, McMaster University
Centre for International and Security Studies, York University

Examining Interventions

The first annual gathering of the Southern Ontario Graduate Security Network (SOGS-Net) is dedicated to considering how best to understand and explain interventions. In order to promote a broad yet thorough analysis, no “definition” of what constitutes an intervention will be imposed upon discussions. Rather participants are encouraged to focus on how practices affect how, when, why and where interventions are undertaken. Accordingly, over the course of the day discussions will cover a range of topics including, but not limited to, the political-economics of recent interventions, the ethics of intervening, the rise of China, neo-colonialism and the militarization and/or commercialization of humanitarian interventions.

8 March 2013
10:30am-4:00pm
519 York Research Tower
York University

Click here to register

York University
7th Floor
York Research Tower
4700 Keele Street
Toronto, ON
M3J 1P3
416-736-5156 ph
416-650-8069 fax
www.yorku.ca/yciss

